THE FALL OF BOTTOMLEY.

Convicted of Blackmail and Thrashed in the Strand.

LOSDON, February 26. In the High Court to-day the Prudential Assurance Company applied to have Horatio Wharf. Bottomley imprisoned for contempt of Court in consequence of his having published in his paper, John Bull, articles attacking the Company for having rafused to participate in his scheme for disposing of his financial responsibilities. The company declared that the articles were slanderous. Buttomley was submitted to a searching Cross-examination with the view of showing that John Bu I denounced financial swindlers and afterwards published their advertisements. Bottomley admitted that he nuthorised a barrister to hint to a representative of the Prudential Assurance Company that he would undertake to publish no further articles attacking the Company on condition that the letter agreed to his scheme for ridding him of his financial burdens.

The Judges, imposing a fine of 2100, said that Bottomley's swidence had been the chief factor in convincing them that the charge of blackmail had been established. It would be useless to inflict a heave fine, as the editors (creditors) of John Bull would have to pay it.

SEQUEL TO A QUARREL Louden, Rebruary 27 As a result of a personal quartel, Aubrey Lowe, a wall-known West End resident. yesterday severely threshed Horatio Bottomler in the Strand, on two occasions mocking him to the ground Bottomley declined to prosecute his senilant, although the latter challenged him to do so. Long states that the querol between Rotomley and himself commenced a year

Italy has for some years been spending a great deal of money in fortifying her her northeastern provinces, and accordingly,

as we read in this semioficial Berlin organ;

amount available for the Tripolitan expedition is reduced considerably. We may however, take it for granted that the Chamber will readily allow a suspension of these extraordinary services for a year, in order to fill the coffers of the War Department. "On" the other hand, we do not believe in the possibility of further retrenchments in the ordinary administration. For her whole foreign service Italy spends less than $5,000,000; it is difficult to believe that in the critical times of war this amount will prove sufficient. For the administration of justice, for education, for public works the Budget allows very small sums; to that not a ponny could

"While the hopes of Sicily, considered from the hinterland point of view, must not be reckened as wholly chimerical, it would be very difficult to say that they are likely to be fulfilled as completely and as House the Principle for the buttle-orninger of the 1311-13 programme ware returned to the Admiraltwon Jenser's 24 it was expressed by shipbuilders that the order would be placed within the first fortnight of the present month. The dalage in coming to a decision is understood to have been due to a desire on the part of the Admiralty to develop the strategical and trotical value of the abip in the light of the extensive alterations which are being made on the Lion cruisers, and it may be salumed that the most successful of the changes made in the Lion the Queen Mary, and the Princess Royal will be incorporated in the design of the next vessel of the class. It has been demonstrated that in such monster craft, where all the big guns are placed on the middle line, large and deep hilps keels are absolutely essential, in order to counteract the rolling motion set up when the guns are being fired and during heavy weather. In view of the experience gained some fining amidehips, so that these creat bilge keels-projecting beyond the breadth of the vessel-may be fitted, and so that at the same time it, may be possible for auch a broad ship to enter existing graving docks. The dock difficulty is a very real one, so far as the Admiralty are concerned. The limit in breadth has just about been reached in the Lion cruisers, if future vessels are to enter the existing dry docks, and Mr Churchill had good reason for urging when in Glasgow recently that the entrance to the Clyde Trust's new dock should be made of sufficient brendth. If much more is added to the bilge keels of warships they cannot enter existing docks

So far not much of a definite character has been published concerning the dimens ons of the rewest battle cruiser. She will be on somewhat similar lines to the Princess Royal, which is at present under construction at Barrow. Her length will be 650ft. between perpendiculars and 702ft. over all. The brendth of the Princess Royal is 884ft., but the new battle-cruiser will be broader by 2ft. The designed horse-power, too, will show an advance. The shart horse power of the Lion was 70,000 and that of the Queen Mary 75,000, but it is understood that a great step forward will be made in the case of the new cruiser, which will develop between 86,000 and 87,000 indicated horsepower, giving a designed speed of over 30 knots. It is interesting to note the stendy increase which has taken place in speed within recent years in large cruisers. The Black Prince, launched in 1904, and the Natal, a year later, had designed speeds of 22.3 knots. The Minotaur (1906) of 23 knots, the Invincible (1907) and the Indefatigable (1909, 25 knots, and the Lion (1910) 28 knots. In other respects the class has made a corresponding development, the vessel of the 1911-12 programme being 18 ft. longer than the Black Prince

The period covered by the 1911.12 programme expires on March 31, so that the order most be placed soon. As will be understood, there is keen competition for the ressel, which is worth between £2,000,000 and £3,000,000. The work, if t is considered advisable, may be given out as two orders, to separate firms—hull and inschinery respectively. There is a preaumption in well-informed circles that 129 Clydebank and Elswick stand a better chance of securing the work than any of he other afferers.

BEST LINIMENT.

CLIGHT accidents and injuries are a froquent occurrence on the farm and in the work shop. A cut or bruise which is often the cause of much annoyance and loss of time, may be cured in about one-third the time usually required by applying Chamterlin's Pain Balm as soon as the injury. is received. There is no danger of blood poisoning resulting from an injury when this liniment is applied before the parts become inflamed and swol'en. For sale by all Chemists and Storokeepers.

MOTOR VERREIR The motor battleship has lagged behind. A gas destroyer is building; gas cruiser is believed to be projected. Both were set going by rumours of German motor battleship, which, however, 385,000 has diminished to a ship with one-third her power supplied by auxiliary engines and even that is not authenticated. The Germans are "going slow," They have discovered, as we have, that motor bettleships do not entail any really important reduction in superstructure and may need

Thus we see Lord Weardale, a Liberal, and Lord Curzon, an equally promounced Conservative, appearing as joint-presidents of the "antie," while a number of waverers both in the Lords and Commons have now definitely joined the opposition. Probably no more supid tactics have ever been adopted by any party than this window smashing outburst, for the blow has been of boomerang affect against the cause it was intended to forward.

the exercise of the domestic arts." This is a serious indictment, yet we all know that it is based on actuality. Mrs GROSVENOR sees a remedy if the 25 women of England will but face the facts as she does. As she says, "While the girls on this side of the water shop and pluy golf, entertain each other at tea, play bridge of attend lectures as the fancy takes them, turning gradually into more or less disappointed, unmarried old women, on the other side of the water a small but heroic band of women does the work which it would take three women in the older country to do, of the Christian eral besides bearing and rearing a new work-and-help." What the Overseas dominions require are domestic women make appeal, and we gather that the aim of the Colonial Intelligence League is to bring about a change in the educational system of England whereby this old fashioned type of femalecan again be produced to meet the needs of the new countries. We read that "the Colonial Intelligence League aims at telling the truth and the whole truth to the educated women of England about the life overseas. It paints no rosente pictures of immediate ease and wealth, yet it points out the immense hopefulness, the infinite possibilities which the life offers." It intends to do more than this. ### THE SULAN AFFAIR

At the Magistracy this afternoon the case was constuded in which four Chipees members of a threatment company were charged with assaulting the police on board the Sur An. The case arose in connection with the affect in which Labor Set. Attewell-who afterwards in committed suicide - was concerned. Lacks, whose beyon already appeared in the Ching Most year P.C. Perkins had placed before a Magis, repeated in the evidence this afternoon the opportunity of making a statement. They all said that they were struck by the Chinese constable who a rested them. They were arrested before they heard the chors fired, but they denied striking either the serv ant or the Chinese

Mr. Potter, who appeared for the defendants, said he thought the facts of fortunately a serious outcome had taken place in connection with the affair, and out for that he thought the case would have occupied only a very short time. So far as the defendance were obnostned there. was no suggestion that they wore either directly or indirectly responsible for the blow that was struck against Sgt. Attawell. The magistrate mid that there was not sufficient evidence against the defendants to warrant a conviction, and he accordingly discharged them.

There was a counter charge which Mr Irving also dismissed.

REVIEWS.

The Town of Crooked Ways, by J. S. FLETCHER. Bell'a Colonial Library.

This is a rather sombre story, pitched in the accruic key so much beloved by Mr. Thomas Hardy. It deals with several persons who played no unimportant part in the life of a little Yorkshipe town, which the author calls Normansholt. An unlovely lot they are in the aggregate, their principal business in life being to get as much " brasa" as possible and then to flaunt it before the eyes of their neighbours. Keenly suspicious of one snother, they gossip and destroy each other's reputations as regularly as the sun rises and sets. Big esters, bigger drinkers, with a reputation for being laviah and free handed in their hospitality they really saw to it that they did not give any-Mr M. A. Mr Fletcher devotes much pains to limning the character of this astute north-countryman, and the impression created is to say the least repellant. Soloman's nephew, a shifty youth employed in the local bank, is equally a disagreeable specimen and for the matter of that so are all the characters in the book save Bevis Coleman and Millie Earnshaw and one fine old campaiguer of a maiden lady ... For a time Coleman is in Soloman's employ, but he soon becomes disgrated at the smart dealings of the old broker and see up in opposition against him. But the fight is too, unequal and Coleman is about to give in and leave with Millie for Canada, when the tragedy towards which the whole story has been developing suddenly animinates. The absording of the manager of the local bank brings disaster for one of the best known of the fown's so-called worthis and the book closes like the play of Hamles. with the stage strawn with corpses, on cluding those of Soloman, his nephes and his niece. [COYPRIGHT.] THE COAL DISPUTE

GOVERNMENTS HOPE.

(Reuler's Service to the China Mail.) London, March 27. The Times states that the Government hopes the miners will seize on the Bill as an excuse to return to work. Failing resumption, the Government has planned effective measures for the relief of distress, and will probably call out the Reserves to protect the workers.

The Times, says a brief joint conferonce was held yesterday. As the result of"s Government ruse, the coal owners went to Downing st. to meet the Government, but were recentfully surprised to find the miners' representatives there.

PREM ER INDISPOSED.

It is understood that Mr. Asquith is suffering from mental strain.

ANOTHER THREAT.

The Welsh leader, Mr. Hartshorn, in an interview, said the Federation were not weakening, and were seriously considering appealing to the transport workers and other organisations.

PHILANTHROPIC OWNERS.

The Monmouth and South Wales coal owners have each contributed £1,000 to the relief funds at Cardiff. Swansen and Newport, and the South Yorkshire coal owners have contributed £2,000 each for the relief of local distress.

COMMONS PASS BILL.

The third reading of the Bill was cargied by 213 to 48 at 2.50 this morning. The House of Lords immediately sat for the first reading, which was carried.

Mr Lloyd George voted with the majority on the 5/- and 2/- minima amendment. The minority on this amendment included fifty Radicals. number of other amendments, including egyeral moved by the Government, were disposed of.

SELF OR COUNTRY, WHICH?

A most notable speech on the debate was that by the Miners' Federationist, Mr Walsh, who said that when the Bill was passed, it was the duty of every well wisher of the country to make the hest of it. "Our citizenship ought to be higher than our trades unionism, he said.

MINERS MEET.

The Daily News states that the Miners' Federation met to-day to consider the Government proposal to establish a National Wages Board, and to consider the 5/- and 2/- minims on the understanding that the miners will resume work immediately these two points are settled. There were 3,200 miners working yesterday.

HOUSE OF LORDS DEBATE.

The House of Lords was crowded for the second reading of the Coal Bill, all stages of which will be taken to night. Lord Crewe, in the course of a speech, declined to assume the possibility of the Bill being a failure. He stated that it met the miners' wishes so far as they could be met by legislation, and he hoped they would accept it.

Lord Lansdowne pointed out that in the debate on the Address the Government rejected the principle of a minimum wage, and were now converted to it not by the grievances of the miners but by the appearance of a colossal conspiracy making the miners grievances a pretext for their action. The Government had Dandy Prat (Maher), and Star of Doon not realised the dangers ahead. The Bill had no finality and left the miners'. leaders with the power at any time to sentence the country to servation and rain and to humiliate and paralyse the nation perhaps at a time when it most needed its strength. Any attempt to alter the Bill, however, wonky only emberrass the Government and prolong the suspense. The Opposition discretore would not move any amendment but would place on record its doubts of the wisdom and justice of the measure The Bill carried its own Memens would be epoch making. He saked sthether the whole of the immunities given to Trade Unions under the Trade Dispute Act were appropriate to the new swill also study literature and drame. conditions. He hoped the Bill would give a breathing space wherein the also contemplated Government might set its industrial house in ord().:..

OWSTRS ACCEPT BILL.

adequate protection would be given to willing workers.

To-day there are over 4,000 miners working in the pits.

BALLOT OF MINERS.

The Miners Federation this afternoon decided on an immediate ballot of the men asking if they are in favour of resuming pending a settlement of the minima by the District Boards.

The miners' delegates are leaving London for various districts. The ballot will be completed by April 3rd. The Federation will make no recommendation as to how the men
